

Directions

The site is just off the A498 at the north-east side of Llyn Gwynant lake. The turning is extremely tight if approaching from the North (coming down the hill), so you may wish to approach from the south if possible, especially if you are in a larger vehicle. There is a lay-by you can turn around in just a little way down the road:

Parking

After you turn off the A498, the wedding venue & camping is the first turn on your left. It has limited parking so we would ask anyone who is not camping for the wedding to use the larger overflow carpark (if possible). This is further down the road which bends to the right, then the next left through the entrance to the main campsite, and the overflow carpark is immediately on the right. If you get to the main campsite you've gone too far:

Those arriving the night before

Those camping are welcome to arrive the night before (Friday). You should arrive from 2:30pm onwards and the venue has a strict policy that there should be no arrivals before 2pm. Be aware that we will be running around getting the venue ready for the main event, so:

- You're on your own. We aren't being anti-social; we're panicking!
- You won't have access to the building, except for the toilets
- You may be roped in to help 😊

Wedding day

The main campsite has an outdoor cafe called Blas yr Allt which serves breakfast from 7am.

The official start time on Saturday is midday, so those camping may wish to pitch before then so you don't miss anything.
